

MIHO IMOTO

Miho majored in Dance at the prestigious Japanese Womens Physical University. After graduating, she traveled to NYC to pursue her dream of dancing on Broadway.

After only a few years of NYC experience, she was asked by George Lucas & Co. To perform in George Lucas Super Live Adventure and returned to Japan to perform in this record breaking box office hit show in which she danced and played the lead role of Hiromi.

Soon after she found herself in Germany, performing in the Rock Musical , “ Tabaluga und Lillie”. Along side one of Germany’ s biggest stars, Peter Muffy and having created the original role of Tabaluga, Miho toured the first run in 10,000 seat arenas thruout the country.

Miho then returned to the US and toured the 50 states as Eliza, the lead dance role in the infamous Broadway show, “The King and I” .

After completing that tour, she once again hit the road , performing in the 1st National US tour of “Flower Drum Song” .

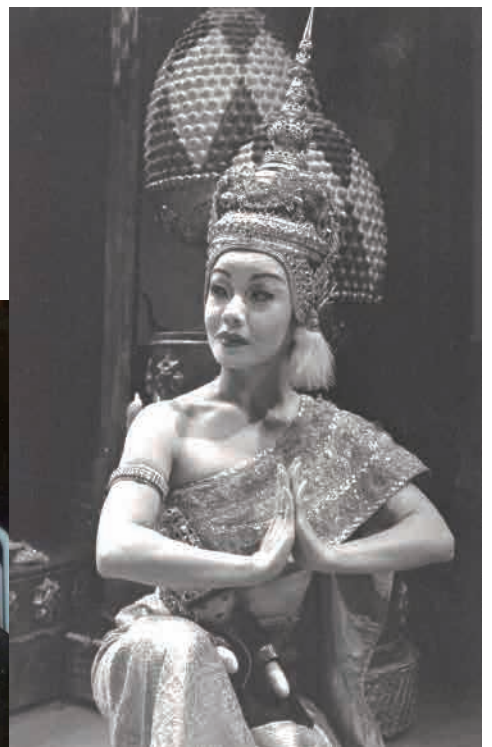

In her multi-faceted dance career, Miho has danced with the “Alpha Omega Dance Company” ; Shared Japanese culture via performances with the “ Japanese Folk Dance Institute Minbuza” ; Founded the “ Sakura Dance Troupe” and performed as special guest for New York University’ s Cultural Exchange, the FBI, AGI etc.

As Lead Dancer for the Billboard Award winning merenge hip-hop group, Proyecto Uno, Miho again found herself on the road thruout the US and Dominican Republic.

After returning to NYC and providing stage direction for the Off Broadway musical “Sake of Geisha” , Miho founded and remains President of Dance Cat NY Corp and Artistic director for Global art and Culture Exchange MAI providing choreography and education in both NYC and Tokyo.

In 2018, she was invited by the mayor of Kuroishi to be ambassador of the city for the Aomori Prefecture And now continues to bridge the cultural divide between nations as the principle dancer and Choreographer of Convergence.
